A Looming Civilian Crisis

Using our Custom Channels and Network Analytics of key influencers, Babel Street analysts are tracking a looming crisis in the besieged city of Kyiv. The city may be running low on vital supplies such as food, drinking water, and medicines.

Individuals and organizations, both local and international, began to sound the alarm online on February 23, with a dramatic spike in postings on supplies, water, fuel, medicine, and food, working to draw attention to the growing problem.
